THE KIDS VS. THE BUMS. val Base Ball Nines of Nelson's Colleg to Play a Game Monday. A number of scholars at Nelson's, who were the unhappy witnesses of the alleged game of ball between the regular nine of the college and the Wittenberg nine yester due took it into their heads this morning that they could play ball in a way that would retrieve the fallen fortunes of the ollege, and proceeded forthwith to organ an opposition nine. This nine answers the name of "The Kids." The name was given rather in derision, on account of their newness, than on account of the youthfulness of the players.

The pitcher is bald headed, while several other members are by no means spring chickens. The new comers have retaliated chickens. The new comers have retaliated on the regulars by calling them the "Bums" and as such have challenged them to play a game at an early day. The challenge was instantly accepted, and the great game will come off on next Monday afternoon on the Buck creek grounds. Billy Rodgers has been chosen captain of the Kids, while "Chid" Smith commands the regulars. The playing order of the newly-organized club without rectification, and is, indeed, so indaying order of the newly-organized club may be changed, but the order given below s the way it stands now. "Chick" says one advantage the Kids have is that they are all equally good (or bad") pitchers. The playing positions of the rival clubs is as The

THE PERSIAN RIVAL OF PENNSYL-VANIA'S PETROLEUM FIELDS.

Great Town Built Upon the Spot Here tofore Held Sacred by the Fire Wor shiping thebres-Twelve Thousand Square Miles of Oil Region.

The great town of Baku has now poast line of about six miles, sweeping around a well protected harbor crowded with shipping-ships of all tonnage, all fitted with tanks to store the oil that pours from a hundred fountains. From time immemorial this spot has been deemed sacred by the Ghebres of Persia. without rectification, and is, indeed, so in-flammable that the naphtha gas occas-ionally ignites spontaneously and plays in pale flames above fissures in the rock. On stormy nights these flames have been seen to blaze up with an awful spirit light, which, to the eyes of the Ghebres, nvested the spot with special sanctityanctity intensified by the fact that here according to Arabian chrot iclers, a great colcanic mountain was in full action til 800 years ago. Since then the thermal forces have expended their energies on spouting oil and therewith saturating the desert plain of the Aspheros peninsula; and truly a more repulsive site for a great city could not well be found.

It is a plain about fifteen miles in width and projecting thirty miles into the Cas plan from the point where the Caucasus terminates on its shores. The whole surface of the ground is black with waste petroleum, which in cold weather hardens was played before a large audience yester-day (Wednesday) afternoon, and resulted in a victor for the "boys from over the creek." The game abounded in brilliant plays and sharp fielding. The features of the game were Rockfield's line catching, tootwald and Becker's battery work, Smith's first base playing and Long's big drive in tered," true water being too precious to be thus wasted. This dust, combined with the dense smoke poured from the chimneys of somewhere about 300 refining factories, does nothing to improve the atmosphere. And here, day and night, the oil fountains pour forth their hideons black streams. They yield an average of from 25 to 35 per cent. of pure oil, and feet. When the stream is the feet of the stream is the feet. from 25 to 35 per cent, of pure oil, and from 20 to 30 per cent, of refuse, which makes excellent fuel for the great fleets of oil steamers and locomotives. The supply may well be deemed inexhaustible. inasmuch as 12,000 square miles in this region are found to be oleiferous, and of this vast surface only six miles have as yet been developed. The oil bearing stratum extends beneath the Caspian. where it crops up in Tehelikan, a true isle of oil. Here the oil literally streams into the sea from hills and cliffs, which may be

It was visible for many miles around, and on the first day it poured forth about 50,000 barrels, and, with gradually diminishing volume, continue to play for five months, when it finally subsided, leaving its unfortunate owner oan Armenian company; well nigh ruined by the claims brought against it by neigh-bors whose lands were destroyed by the

by a violent shock, which caused all the windows to rattle, and suddenly the dark mess of the night was illuminated by an intense light, as though the city were afame. It proved, however, to be the reflection on the heavens of a great fire at a distance; but no one dreamt that its locality lay within the earth. Nor was this realized till the following night, when the same awful glare became visible; and shortly before midnight a terrible explo sion was heard, followed by a vast column of flame, apparently 350 feet in height, which shot up from the summit of Lok Batan, close to the Ponta railway station. It was a calm night, with scarcely a breath of wind, so the flames continued to ascend quite vertically, carrying large masses of dark matter, which fell back into the crater. Considerable heat was felt at the distance of fully a mile, and the whole country was lighted by a glare brighter than that of the sun at noonday This lasted for about thirty hours, by not continuously, the column occasionally subsiding. The volume of liquid mud ejected in this period overspread a tract of about a square mile to a depth varying from seven to fourteen feet.—New York

Star. Steamboat Life in 1845. My first venture in steamboat life was in 1845, and then I thought it was a very risky one. The first boat I owned was a little sternwheeler, the Lucilla, the first St Louis and Alton daily packet. At that time Alton had but one street running back from the river bank. Close to the boat landing I had a little store with all my little fortune invested. Shortly after I had opened out, along came a minister who owned the Lucilla. He was disouraged with his efforts at steamboating, and wanted me to take the boat off his hands. One thousand dollars was the figure; $800 cash and the balance in two three months. I finally agreed on $500 cash and the balance on time. How was I to get the money? It was as difficult of solution as the interstate commerce puz-zle. But I got it. I went around to the business men of Alton, borrowed $25 from this one and $30 from another, and not one of them knew that I had borrowed from the other. In about two hours I had the $500 together, closed the bargain and started for St. Louis the nex day. The boat was a success, and I cleared all indebtedness in two trips. This, in brief, is the history of the first Alton and St. Louis boat.—Capt. La
